

Winston Lee Gains Recognition

Apr 1985

HEBER CITY (LRJ) Winston Lee, pianist, gained further recognition in Snowflake, Arizona, when he played as the featured soloist at their Spring Concert. The Silver Creek Symphony presented its tribute to Bach and Haudel on the 300th Anniversaries of their births. The April 11 concert was presented in the Lobo Auditorium in Snowflake, and there the audience responded to Winston's playing with three curtain calls. His performance with the symphonic orchestra was Piano Concerto No. 1 in G. Minor, Op. 25, by Felix Mendelssohn.

Just as Mendelssohn remarked at its premiere performance, "I was received with loud applause...but I was modest and would not appear," Winston re-appeared but did not give an encore.

At the local schools, Winston was a hit with his peers who asked many questions of him and about his music efforts and successes. Perhaps this was the real highlight of the trip that he and his family (who are very proud of him) took to Arizona. Students who appreciated his talents regaled him with attention and interest.

"I feel this is one way to expose young people to what kids their own age are doing," said Silver Creek Symphony Director Scott Gentry. Winston is 13 years old. His first solo recital was at age eight. At nine he performed with the Utah Valley Symphony. Since that time, in competition, he has received outstanding recognition and awards.

A great deal of his success is attributed to the efforts of his mother, Judy Lee, who not only nurtures him as a son but constantly encourages him in his
